Welcome On behalf of the Foundation Board of Directors, it is my pleasure to welcome you to the 32nd annual Kootenai Health Foundation Festival of Trees and thank you for your continuing support.

With this year's event being virtual we will truly miss gathering to celebrate the holidays with you. The safety of our community is our top priority and we look forward to continuing the tradition of this steadfast event.

This year, proceeds of Festival of Trees will support the Foundation's Health Care Heroes fund. The costs associated with COVID-19 have been, and will continue to be significant. These challenging times remind us that having a high-quality hospital close to home is critically important to our community. The needs of patients, caregivers and the hospital continue to grow. Now, more than ever, the support from our community is important.

It is truly inspirational to see your support for our community-owned, not-for-profit, independent hospital. The Foundation Board remains dedicated in our work to inspire philanthropy to provide superior care right here at home. On behalf of the Foundation Board, thank you for your continued support of our hospital and its foundation.

Merry Christmas, Happy Holidays and Happy New Year!

Home for the Holidays

In light of the current public health situation, the Kootenai Health Foundation has decided to transform this year's Festival of Trees to a virtual experience. The 32nd Annual Festival of Trees will take place on Friday, November 27 through Sunday, November 29.

This year our 32nd annual festival will look a little different, but we're confident that Festival of Trees will continue to be a great kick off to the holiday season for our community, as it has been since 1989.

Text FESTIVAL to 71760 or visit kh.org/festival for updates for this year's virtual experience and to purchase raffle tree tickets, win prizes and so much more!

We must find time to stop and thank the people who make a difference in our lives.

- John F. Kennedy

Each year during the holidays, we are reminded to give thanks for all that we have, and all of the good in our lives. Although 2020 may be dampening our holiday spirit through smaller gatherings, less travel to visit loved ones, or possibly being reminded of loved ones lost, there is still much for us all to be thankful for. It is in times of hardship when taking a moment to be thankful can be the most impactful.

This year as we gather around what may be a noticeably smaller Thanksgiving feast, or video chat with loved ones from a distance, we encourage you to express your gratitude for the people who impact your life. Whether it's thanking your favorite barista when they remember your favorite order, or expressing gratitude for a co-worker who consistently has your back. Or, if you find yourself in the doctor's office, hospital, or if you bump into a neighbor on the street who happens to be a nurse, tell them how much you appreciate the service they bring to our community because, without them, we wouldn't be here to care for you.

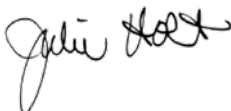

As we enter the season of giving, we want to take a moment to appreciate all the community has given us in this year of unprecedented events. The generosity and caring of our community has never been more apparent than it has been during the pandemic. Unseen armies of seamstresses sewed hand-made masks. Generous donors provided financial support. First responders organized a parade of support. Rotarians delivered dozens upon dozens of roses to health care workers, and others provided notes of encouragement and thanks. The acts of kindness are too numerous to list, but all are deeply appreciated. This community encouragement has been a light in the darkness.

The 32nd annual Festival of Trees will have its own special place in our history as it caps off a year unlike any other. Despite the many challenges 2020 threw our way, one thing has remained clear – we have a lot to be thankful for.

Thank you for continuing to support your community hospital and best wishes as we enter 2021.
